

Art of the Month!

Special Monty Mention...

Musa Ravat

Musa seems to have had great fun exploring Pop Art. He has included block colours around the boarder to create an eye catching piece of work.

Mahira Kadir

Mahira has tried out some free-hand Pop art.

POP! art quiz

*Required

when did Pop art originate? *

Your answer

Anna Patel

Anna has created a quiz on google forms for our Art focus for this month. Well done Anna - some questions certainly test our knowledge.

Do you want to have a go?

The link has been reposted on the Art Classroom, if you want to give the quiz a shot!

Arlo Richards

Arlo was inspired by Warhol and he did some clever photo editing with his dad to recreate a pastiche. Arlo insisted on beans because he likes beans.

Gia Billen

Gia has explored the Ben Day dots in her artwork.

Jared Quinn

Jared has used a software on his mums mobile to create this piece of work. He has used bright and bold colours. Jared created multiple pieces using this software but this one was his favourite.

Noah Kirk

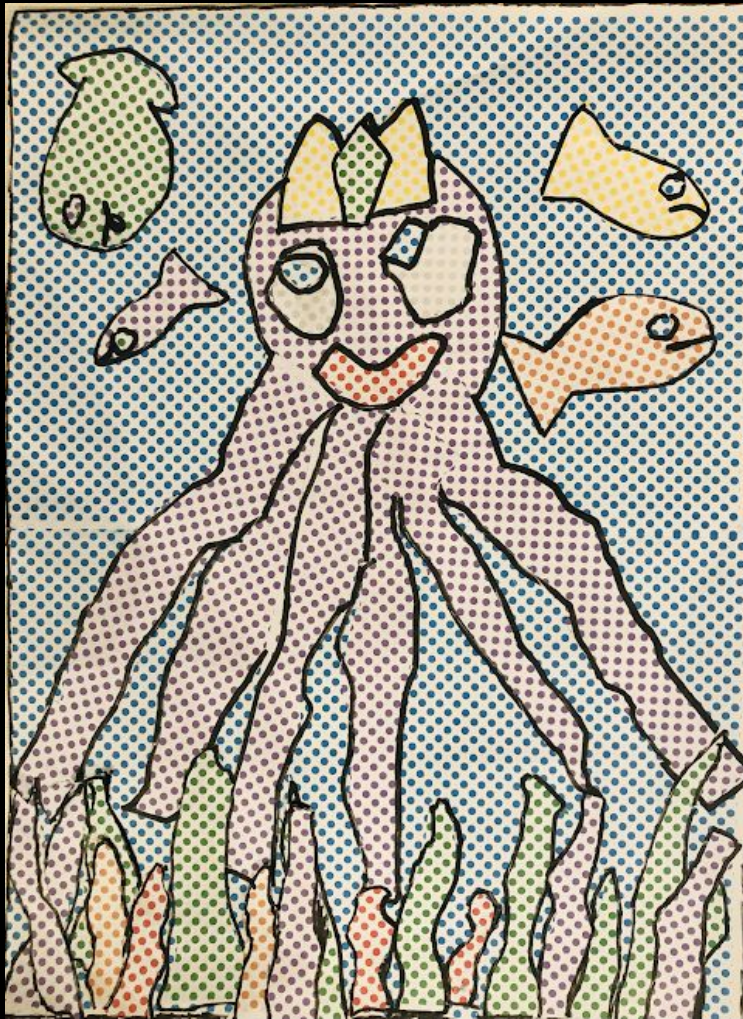

Noah has selected some of his favourite pictures and used a software to saturate the colours. He has tried to create a screen printed effect similar to Warhol.

Miley Yarnall

Miley tried something different with Pop art. She linked her Pop Art to what is happening in the world at the present time. She has used many bright and bold colours - well done!

Laney Murray

Laney had used the Ben Day dots effect similar to Roy Lichtenstein on this piece of work.

Zara Patel

Zara has tried to create something original and used a combination of techniques from Pop Art. She has used acrylic paint for the Ben Day dots and for stripes in the background.

SHREEYA

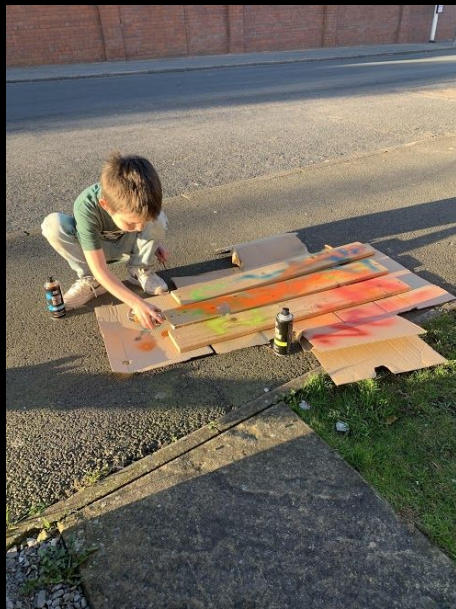

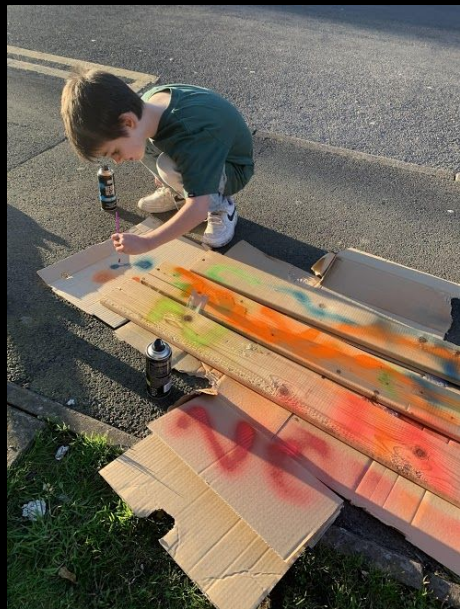

Shreeya Patel

Shreeya has really explored Pop Art. The first picture is a selfie and she used paints, crayons and felts to colour the picture in. The second is her name filled with Ben Day dots.

Shout out!

Noah Kirk

A shout out to Noah, who and continued to explore last month's focus. Noah has really enjoyed the graffiti focus and carried on exploring different ways to use the spray paints. Well done Noah, we are glad you enjoyed this focus!
